Studying at the University of Vienna
Cultural Management

This postgraduate certificate course aims to provide conceptual knowledge and applied skills for the management of cultural and social projects. It is designed to bridge best practice and inspirational theory as well as to anticipate trends and explore experimental formats. Participants will establish contacts and will also develop projects in relevant fields. In order to be accepted, participants have to hold an academic degree in cultural or social sciences or a high school degree (GCA A-Levels) combined with experience in related fields.

Human Rights

The implementation of human rights in peace operations, development projects, transition and post-conflict situations requires highly motivated and skilled human rights experts. The master program aims at providing you with transdisciplinary scientific knowledge and practical skills to allow you to work in diverse professional environments. Students should hold at least a bachelor degree, from a broad variety of academic disciplines, possess an open mind, empathy for human beings and a strong interest in human rights. Graduates might work as election observers, officers for human rights monitoring and capacity building in the field, diplomats, trainers, mediators, consultants, researchers, etc.

International Studies

The Master of Advanced International Studies is a two-year academic program that focuses on the advanced study of politics and international relations, international economics, history, international and European law. It is based on the principles of multidisciplinarity, internationality, knowledge of current affairs and participatory learning. The aim is to gain the ability to analyze and understand European and international development processes. Graduates will have excellent career prospects for working in international organizations and enterprises, public or diplomatic services, as well as in research.
European and International Business Law

The LL.M. program focuses on the European and international legal framework for internationally operating enterprises and the relevant economic governance issues. A special emphasis is put on European Union business law as well as the enterprises’ legal position, when doing business within the European market or internationally. The program is of special interest for persons who are affiliated with or plan to work for internationally operating business law firms or enterprises, government agencies, business lobbies or any other European and international organizations.

International Legal Studies

The postgraduate LL.M. degree course in International Legal Studies at the University of Vienna is a 1-year full-time or a 2-year part-time program. This program aims at deepening the knowledge of structures and specific issues in international law – such as: Fundamental Issues of International Law, International Economic Law, International Organizations and International Dispute Settlement. Students acquire knowledge and skills that are important for the practice of international law, in international organizations, governmental agencies, as well as in internationally operating law firms and enterprises.
